

Write a sentence with your “concept of the week” :

Bob is hungry

It's s(= It is) seven (o'clock) in the evening, and Bob says to his girlfriend Pat: "Pat, I'm (= I am) so hungry. Let's (= Let us) make scrambled eggs." "Good idea, Bob. I'm (= I am) hungry, too," Pat says. She goes to the kitchen and says: "We've (= We have) everything to make scrambled eggs: Eggs, butter, milk, pepper and salt."

Bob answers: "Great. I'll (I will) beat the eggs and the milk with the pepper and the salt; then I've (= I have) to melt the butter in a frying pan, and put in the egg mixture."

Pat tells Bob: "Be careful to stir it all the time until it's (= it is) thick. Then we can put the eggs on buttered toasts. That's (= That is) easy, Bob. I'll (= I will) make the toast while you're (= you are) making the scrambled eggs."

Bob puts 2 eggs, the butter, and the milk on the table. Pat gets the bread. Suddenly she says: "Listen, Bob! Only two eggs for two of us? I'm (= I am) hungry and so are you. Take four!" – "All right, Pat; but watch the toast! Look! It's (It is) burning!"

Then Bob brings the scrambled eggs. Pat takes a mouthful and says: "It tastes funny, Bob." – "Oh, my god! (=omg) There's (= There is) no salt and pepper in it!"
